

JENNIFER TEE - LOCAL MYTHS

Eastside Projects

Until 6 November

Amsterdam-based artist Jennifer Tees makes her way to Digbeth, bringing with her a collection of culturally inspired pieces that find their roots around the world. Her first solo UK exhibition calls together a number of uniquely crafted installations, from a huge engraved marble column (pictured) to Chinese crafted porcelain feathers.

All these works hark back to indigenous crafts and juxtapose each other by occupying the space in scattered and gravity defying forms. Much of these works were made in collaboration with Tee and others delving into traditional craft, but it is only now that they have been brought together as one cohesive display.

On show with the exhibition will also be a number of Tee's books, as well as a new publication Tee has formed in working with Eastside Projects own James Langdon.

Gallery 2: Eastside Projects has put together a number of smaller exhibitions and shows to take over their subset space Gallery 2. Here is a look at what is coming up over the next month.

Until 2 October: Square Describing a Circle - Elizabeth McAlpine

A sculptural piece that plays with the use of light, time and how both plays with our perceptions.

7 - 9 October: The World According to MeDoug Fishbone

You've probably never seen stand up comedy quite like it, but have a watch of videos of Doug's routine and you'll get some unique perspectives on this world. Come on Friday 8th from 7-9pm for a live performance of Fishbone's show.

14 - 16 October: Ultra High Temperature

This group exhibition takes a number of artists from Birmingham and puts together an eclectic congregation of pieces that includes: a sign holder, Japanese inspired aesthetics and a performance using dressmaking tools.

23 October, 12-7pm: Gottesrauschen (God's White Noise) - Christian Jendreiko

Part of Supersonic Festival, Dusseldorf artist Christian Jendreiko will mould a performance over the seven hours that brings together a number of experienced and inexperienced players. CB
